

VOL. 13 NO. 082

CENTRAL BANK OF LIBERIA MARKET BUYING AND SELLING RATES

DATE	BUYING	SELLING
TUESDAY, MAY 23, 2023	L$166.7246/US$1.00	L$168.7576US$1.00

These are indicative rates based on results of daily surveys of foreign exchange market in Monrovia and selected cities of Liberia. These rates are collected from the Central bank commercial banks, parallel market and the license forex bureaux. The rates are not set by the Central Bank of Liberia. Source: Research, Policy and Planning Department, CBL

PRICE LD$40.00

French Version Inside

Google Play QPR CODE: 797005 NewDawn Android App

TUESDAY, MAY 23, 2023

Pay with MoMo!

Dial *156*3# ▶ Google Play Cooking Store

Continental News

Waiting at the airport UK rejects calls to return with nowhere to go Ethiopian prince's body

t is the airport wait from hell.Paloich Airport, which usually buzzes with the sound of well-heeled workers serving South Sudan's oil fields, has turned into a camp for thousands of people fleeing the conflict in neighbouring Sudan - now more than a month old.

Eritreans who have been let alone humans," he said uprooted for a second time after previously arriving in Sudan to escape the situation at home. And these people are stuck in

According to the UN, there were over 136,000 Eritrean refugees and asylum seekers in Sudan before this war.

There are no toilet facilities, no running water, no kitchens - just crowds of people living around their bags, resting on luggage trolleys, or sleeping under makeshift tents while waiting to catch a flight. They have ended up here, four hours from the border with Sudan, in the hope of finding a way out. But there are few flights and little information about when people may be able to leave.

Most Eritreans do not want to give their names to journalists because they are scared of retribution from the Eritrean authorities.

Eritrea is a highly restrictive state that controls almost all aspects of people's lives, and many want to avoid the prospect of compulsory national service.But Tesfit Girmay agreed to speak to me. He had arrived in Paloich five days earlier.

The kind of life around here, Among these refugees are you wouldn't wish it for animals looking at the tents around him. As a single man he recognised that he was luckier than some."Maybe I can stand it. Sleeping outside, eating once a day, maybe I can stand it. But the biggest problem, there are people with children. There are people with four or five children," Mr Tesfit told me.

He fled the deteriorating economy in Eritrea at the end of last year and headed to Sudan, hoping to find work and maybe travel on to another country.But in South Sudan, Eritreans find themselves trapped. Over 700 have arrived in the country.

Other nationals who fled the conflict in Sudan such as Kenyans, Ugandans and Somalis have been repatriated by their governments. But many Eritreans in Paloich said they were terrified to go back home, or see no future there.

Mr Tesfit said that Eritreans at the airport were banned from getting onto flights to South Sudan's capital, Juba. At the same time they have refused to go to the designated refugee camps in the country. A three-hour drive further north, and closer to the border with Sudan, is another temporary camp bursting at the seams. The former grounds of the Upper Nile University in Renk, once abandoned, are now repopulated by more than 6,000 people. BBC declined a request to return the remains of an Ethiopian prince who came to be buried at Windsor Castle in the 19th Century.

taken to the UK aged just seven and arrived an orphan after his mother died on the journey.

an interest in him and arranged for his education and ultimately his burial when he died aged just 18.But his family wants his remains to be sent back to Ethiopia.

"We want his remains back as a family and as Ethiopians because that is not the country he was born in," one of his descendants Fasil Minas told the BBC. "It was not right" for him to be buried in the UK, he added.

But in a statement sent to the BBC, a Buckingham Palace spokesperson said removing others buried in the were needed to cart away the uckingham Palace has prince's father Emperor Tewodros II sought an alliance with the UK, but his letters making his case did not get a response from Queen Victoria.

Angered by the silence and taking matters into his own hands, Prince Alemayehu was the emperor held some Europeans, among them the British consul, hostage. This precipitated a huge military expedition, involving some 13,000 British and Indian troops, to Queen Victoria then took rescue them.

> The force also included an official from the British Museum.

In April 1868 they laid siege to Tewodros' mountain fortress at Maqdala in northern Ethiopia, and in a matter of hours overwhelmed the defences. The emperor decided he would rather take his own life than be a prisoner of the British, an action that turned him into a heroic figure among his people. After the battle, the British plundered thousands of cultural and religious artefacts. These included gold crowns, manuscripts, necklaces and dresses.

Historians say dozens of his remains could affect elephants and hundreds of mules

Probe as Malawi fire guts ensitive state offices

he Malawi offices of key government departments holding sensitive information.

The fire gutted the last top two floors of a seven-storey government building destroying the government contracting unit, a department in the president and cabinet's office.

It also destroyed two departments in the lands ministry - the lands registry and deeds registry. An official described the offices as "holding very sensitive information".

The community services department in the country's judiciary was also gutted in the fire reported to have started at 23:00 local time on Saturday.

government says it is Minister Moses Kunkuyu said a investigating a probe led by the police, mysterious fire in the capital supported by other security Lilongwe that destroyed agencies, was under way to not to "worry about any establish the cause of the fire.

> Soon after news of the fire broke, social media was awash with insinuations the fire may have been the work of saboteurs and that critical information may

Information and Digitalisation have been lost. But the information minister said the information had been backed up digitally, assuring people alleged loss of information for nefarious reasons".

> He said the investigations would be conducted quickly and the outcome made available to the public.BBC

Chapel in Windsor Castle.

a substantial number of others in the vicinity," the palace said.

The statement added that the authorities at the chapel were sensitive to the need to honour Prince Alemayehu's memory, but that they also had "the responsibility to preserve the dignity of the departed".

It also said that in the past the Royal Household had "accommodated requests from Ethiopian delegations to visit" the chapel. How Prince Alemayehu ended up in the UK result of imperial action and the failure of diplomacy. In 1862, in an effort to strengthen his empire, the catacombs of St George's treasures, which are today scattered across European "It is very unlikely that it museums and libraries, as well as in would be possible to exhume private collections. The British also the remains without took away Prince Alemayehu and his disturbing the resting place of mother, Empress Tiruwork Wube. The British may have thought this was to keep them safe and prevent them being captured and possibly killed by Tewodros' enemies, who were near Magdala, according to Andrew Heavens, whose book The Prince and the Plunder recounts Alemayehu's life. Following his arrival in Britain in June 1868, the prince's predicament and his status as an orphan elicited the sympathy of Queen Victoria. The two met at the queen's holiday home on the Isle of Wight, just off England's south She agreed to support him at such a young age was the financially and put him in the guardianship of Captain Tristram Charles Sawyer Speedy, the man who had accompanied the prince from Ethiopia. BBC insisting on a multilateral approach should learn from the experience of the ultimate focusing on India, we would need to employ the carrot, not the stick.

Goldberg

By Pinelopi Koujianou

EDITORIAL

Playing games in the US$100m cocaine case

The NEW DAWN senses a clear gameplay in the US$100 million cocaine case at Criminal Court "C", Temple of Justice involving four defendants that have been released by the court because of lack of evidence and reportedly absconded the country.

Barely days after jury panel in the US$100 million cocaine burst case at Criminal Court "C", Temple Justice in Monrovia last week Thursday brought down a not guilty verdict against the four defendants, calling for their immediate acquittal for lack of evidence by prosecutors, the Government of Liberia thru the Ministry of Justice is calling for their re-arrest, squashing the

It has been the slightest imagination of the Liberian public that despite overwhelming evidence that defendants Maiam Conte, 🛮 Adulai Djibri Djalo, Makki Admeh Issam and Oliver A. Zayzay have link to the container that brought the drugs at the Freeport of Monrovia and taken to TRH Trading Corporation's warehouse in Topoe Village along Japan Freeway outside Monrovia where the consignment was offloaded, would have been acquitted and released from detention.

But this is what happened on Thursday, May 19, to the disappointment of most Liberians, particularly ordinary citizens, who are victims of dangerous drugs being brought into the country by unscrupulous people posing as legitimate business persons.

Justice Minister Cllr. Frank Musa Dean says the verdict undermines the collective efforts of Liberia and its international partners in clamping down on illegal transit of illicit drugs via West Africa as a conduit to trade narcotics from Latin America and other parts of the world

What is even disgusting more is that just after the defendants' release, they are reportedly nowhere to be found with speculations that they may have been escorted out of the country with the help of interested parties.

It beats the imagination of keen observers of Liberian governance structure that defendants duly charged based on overwhelming evidence and put on trial would be adjudged not guilty, released by the court and allegedly escaped with no trace.

This is difficult to believe and is not the first time. We vividly recall the case with former passport director Andrew Wonplue, who was denied entry to the U.S. by State Department for his involvement in passport scandal.

In 2020, the Government of Liberia thru the Ministry of Justice indicted and tried Mr. Wonplue for passport fraud, but the court acquitted him for lack of evidence.

However, after former Secretary of State Mike Pompoe barred him and his immediate family from entering the United States, the government re-indicted Wonplue and re-ordered his arrest but the former passport boss reportedly absconded and has since not been brought to justice for bringing Liberian Diplomatic Passport to disrepute.

We clearly sense a similar scenario in the US$100 million Cocaine case where indictees put on trial were acquitted of all charges and I set free only for the state to be calling for their re-arrest with reports that they have absconded. We fervently hope that this is not the case and the four defendants will be brought back to face the full weight of the law.

Published by the Searchlight Communications Inc., UN Drive, P.O. Box 1266 Opposite National Investment Commission. Monrovia-Liberia. Tel: +231-06484201, +231-77007529, +231-0555422200 / +231-775407211 Managing Editor: Othello B. Garblah, Editor-In-Chief: Jonathan K. Browne www.thenewdawnliberia.com; Email: info@thenewdawnliberia.com

The Climate Elephants in the Room

■ EW HAVEN - Now that the accounts for approximately 7% of global falsehoods and obfuscation of CO2 emissions, and its size and growth climate denialism have finally been trajectory imply that it could easily surpass silenced, addressing climate change has China as the leading polluter, barring become the world's top priority. But time stronger climate policies. In fact, when it is running out, and the International comes to helping developing countries Monetary Fund warns that any further decarbonize, considerable progress could delays on implementing policies to be made simply by targeting India alone. mitigate global warming will only add to The big advantage of this strategy is that it the economic cost of the transition to a would avoid the paralysis associated with low-emissions economy. Worse, we still attempts to adopt a multilateral approach lack a concrete, pragmatic strategy for in an increasingly fragmented world. tackling the problem. Although economists have made a robust case for This does not mean that we should eschew why carbon taxes are the best solution, projects aimed at climate mitigation or this option has proven politically adaptation in other countries. But we infeasible, at least in those countries that would not need to wait until everyone is on account for some of the highest emissions board before doing anything. Those (namely, the United States).

Commentators have also stressed that multilateral institution: the World Trade climate change is a shared problem Organization. Its requirement that every involving important cross-border single provision in every multilateral externalities that must be addressed agreement gain unanimous support has left through a multilateral approach to global it increasingly paralyzed, prompting coordination. But, as with carbon taxes, demands for institutional reform. this argument has fallen on deaf ears. And, given the current geopolitical Of course, India is not low-hanging fruit. It climate and the increasing fragmentation is rich in coal and has little incentive of the global economy, there is little hope (beyond the health of its citizens) to that the message will get through anytime hasten the transition to green energy. In Having committed to assisting developing economies as they confront climate Since the stick generally takes the form of change, the World Bank finds itself pressure to implement carbon taxation, it limited by the country-based model is a non-starter. A tax would be ineffective, underlying its financing operations. It is because it would incite massive domestic earnestly weighing its options and opposition (as has been the case in the US). considering how it could coordinate It would also be morally objectionable, climate-related financing across borders. because it is unfair to ask a lower-middle-But while such efforts are well meaning income country to bear the burden of and consistent with the spirit of reducing CO2 emissions when rich multilateralism, they inevitably will delay countries (like the US) have failed to do the limited financial resources and often the current climate crisis. conflicting interests seems an impossible are starved for energy sources.

income country anymore. China, the become the new outsize polluter. poorest of the group, represents around to green energy - a winning strategy, given University. the country's abundance of rare earth metals.

concrete action. World Bank financing same. Moreover, even if China and India would have to be completely are now two of the world's biggest restructured, and coordinating action polluters, they bear little responsibility for across multiple countries that have the past, cumulative emissions that led to task. For example, while some developing That leaves the carrot, which would come economies are rich in fossil fuels, others in the form of tax incentives or subsidies to support green energy. When paired with other policies, these can ease firms into Given these limitations, pragmatism adapting to higher environmental dictates focusing on the biggest polluters. standards (such as those associated with a Global carbon dioxide emissions are cap-and-trade program). But such policies concentrated among only a handful of are expensive, which means that tackling countries and regions. China, the US, the climate change will require richer European Union, Japan, and Russia countries to help finance them. Whether collectively account for 63% of the total, or not India becomes the new China, it is and none of these top polluters is a low-still in our power to ensure that it does not

30% of all emissions, making it by far the Pinelopi Koujianou Goldberg, a former world's largest current polluter in World Bank Group chief economist and absolute terms. But its government is editor-in-chief of the American Economic taking steps to accelerate the transition Review, is Professor of Economics at Yale

India, the third-largest emitter, currently

Copyright: Project Syndicate, 2023. www.project-syndicate.org

By William Ruto

Walking Our Talk on Climate Action

AIROBI - Last year in Berlin, the great Kenyan long-distance runner Eliud Kipchoge broke the world marathon record, clocking 02:01:09 and beating his previous time by 30 seconds. His success has made him a legend not only in Kenya but globally. It offers a useful lesson for everyone involved in the fight against climate change. Kipchoge's winning strategy is rooted in the science of running (as well as 120 miles of hard work every week), and our own approach to the climate crisis must involve the same level of commitment and focus.

As temperatures keep rising and emissions soar, the planet, too, continues to break (dangerous) new records. But with determination and follow-through, we - together with institutional partners and other governments - can start to run faster to get ahead of the climate crisis. Success will depend on following the latest science and mobilizing a joint, broad-based effort of governments and citizens.

In March, the world's top climate experts and governments signed off on the latest Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change synthesis report. Once again, the IPCC's message was stark: Humans have permanently changed the planet, and global warming is already killing people, destroying nature, and making the world poorer. Though African countries have contributed the least to the problem, they are bearing the brunt of the damage. According to the International Energy Agency (IEA), Africa accounts for less than 3% of the world's energy-related carbon dioxide emissions, and 600 million Africans - an outrageous figure - still do not have access to electricity.

Climate change is a shared problem that the global community must solve by working together, especially given the disproportionate burden being placed on those who are least responsible. During his recent visit to Kenya, German Chancellor Olaf Scholz and I held talks on ways to address the climate crisis. Through the Germany-Kenya Climate and Development Partnership, our two countries have committed to deepen our collaboration on climate-resilient development and renewable energy, including by supporting green-hydrogen production and sustainable agriculture.

We are currently a long way from limiting global warming to 1.5° Celsius or even 2°C, as envisaged by the Paris climate agreement. The climate crisis will not solve itself. On the contrary, we must ensure that global greenhouse-gas (GHG) emissions peak before 2025 at the latest, and then fall by at least 43% by 2030.

This is the year to drive that transformation. The United Nations Climate Change Conference this November-December (COP28) offers an opportunity to accelerate the energy transition, supercharge the growth of renewables, and commit to phase out all fossil fuels - starting with coal.

Kenya is on track to meet these goals. We already generate 92% of our power from clean sources and we have committed to achieving a 100% clean electricity network by 2030. Similarly, renewables generated 46% of Germany's electricity in 2022 and the government has committed to increase that to 80% by 2030. Critically, these commitments will not only ensure clean power and a safer environment; they will also create jobs, attract investment, and make our economies more secure and resilient in the face of volatile oil and gas prices.

But it is important that we run this race as a team. According to the IEA, the global ratio of clean-energy investments to dirty-energy investments must increase sixfold by 2030 (from 1.5:1 to 9:1).

With a strong partnership between Africa, Europe, and the rest of the international community, Kenya, with its abundant resources, can make significant contributions to decarbonization and the global transition to a net-zero economy. We must unlock climate finance and investment, so that we can harness our potential for green economic growth. But to do that, we will need to fix the current international financial system, which has proven inadequate for dealing fairly with multifaceted global crises, from the COVID-19 pandemic and the climate emergency to debt distress across the Global South.

Next month's Summit for a New Global Financial Pact, in Paris, provides an opportunity for Europe to galvanize support for reforming the international financial system. The international community must recognize our potential to help solve global problems and take steps to ensure win-win outcomes. That means providing access to affordable, adequate, and sustainable financing that is delivered in a timely manner.

As we reduce emissions, we also need to prepare our people and our housing, agriculture, and food systems for rising temperatures and extreme weather events. Meeting the 2021 COP26 commitment to double global climate-adaptation financing by 2025 remains crucial for protecting people and nature. The latest IPCC report is clear: climate change and insufficient adaptation and mitigation efforts are reversing development gains and undermining economic stability.

But we also must remember that adaptation has limits, and that climate change is already threatening millions of peoples' lives today. As the IPCC shows, reducing GHG emissions by 43% this decade and stabilizing global warming at or below 1.5°C is still our best chance to keep the problem at a manageable scale. Kenya's climate summit in September will provide a key opportunity to showcase the continent's commitment, potential, and opportunities to deal with the climate crisis. We need all governments to step up and agree to phase out unabated fossil-fuel use. We need reforms to make our financial institutions and systems fit for purpose. And we need to take climate action seriously. In the words of Eliud Kipchoge, the key to success is to "walk your talk."

Copyright: Project Syndicate, 2023. www.project-syndicate.org

OPINION

By Jayati Ghosh

Building a Better SDR

EW DELHI - With much of the developing world teetering on the edge of a debt crisis, the calls for a new issuance of special drawing rights (SDRs, the International Monetary Fund's reserve asset), have grown louder and more urgent. But to have the desired effect, the IMF must modify its allocation criteria and clarify how SDRs can be used to support low- and middle-income countries through the current economic turmoil.

One proposal currently being considered is to expand SDR allocation beyond individual countries to include multilateral development banks and dedicated funds. The idea of channeling SDRs to multilateral institutions like the World Bank and regional development banks, which are uniquely equipped to assist emerging and developing countries, has become increasingly popular in recent years. The Bridgetown Initiative, led by Barbadian Prime Minister Mia Mottley, has called for a new issuance of SDR500 billion ($650 billion) "or other low-interest, long-term instruments" to support the creation of a multilateral agency that would accelerate "private investment in the low-carbon transition, wherever it is most effective."

Similarly, the recent report by the High-Level Advisory Board on Effective Multilateralism (of which I was a member) recommends the "immediate, and thereafter regular" annual issuance of additional SDRs to aid countries facing foreign-exchange shortages. The report also suggests that IMF shareholders amend the organization's Articles of Agreement to permit "selective SDR allocation." This proposed change aims to facilitate a more targeted and effective distribution that prioritizes the most vulnerable countries over the world's largest economies, which receive the lion's share of SDR allocations under the current rules.

Another proposed amendment stipulates that "specific conditions" would automatically trigger SDR allocations to ensure a "swifter global response." Notably, the report emphasizes that eligibility for SDR allocation should not be conditional on the recipient country adopting an IMF-supported fiscal consolidation program.

Unfortunately, these proposals were not even discussed during the Spring Meetings of the IMF and World Bank in April. But we must continue to pursue these reforms, because increased international liquidity, delivered in a timely and efficient manner, is needed more than ever.

By modernizing the outdated system of SDR allocation, the international community could also narrow the climate-finance gap. But, first, the many developing countries currently at risk of a severe debt crisis must receive immediate budgetary support. Unless we create a global financial safety net, the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals stand little chance of being met.

The ongoing financial turmoil highlights the current system's inherent inequities. Over the past few weeks, governments that control global reserve currencies, such as the United States and Switzerland, have pumped massive amounts of liquidity into the banking sector to rescue private banks. In contrast, debtor countries that have applied for debt relief under the G20's Common Framework for Debt Treatments have been waiting for years for a fraction of those sums.

The sovereign-debt crisis currently engulfing the world's poorest countries, which also happen to be the countries most affected by climate change, requires immediate action. At a minimum, lowand middle-income countries grappling with balance-of-payments challenges should be given the opportunity to bolster their foreign-exchange reserves through a new SDR allocation.

But even if a fresh allocation is eventually agreed upon, countries must understand how to make the most of it. Unfortunately, the IMF's vagueness on this issue has caused much confusion, with some asserting that SDRs belong to central banks, not governments, and others insisting that they are loans rather than assets distributed by the IMF.

Consequently, many recipient countries' newly allocated SDRs simply augment foreign-exchange reserves. While this can have a positive impact by increasing a country's perceived creditworthiness, it can also hinder more effective uses of SDRs, particularly in times of acute shortages and fiscal constraints.

The Ecuadorian economist Andrés Arauz has highlighted these concerns, arguing that there is no legal basis for central banks to appropriate SDR allocations. The IMF's own guidance says that members "enjoy a large degree of freedom in how to manage the SDRs allocated to them," including the extent to which "central banks are involved in their management and whether the budget can directly use them for budget support." According to the Fund, SDRs are "allocated and held by the member and instructions for its use come through the fiscal agency of the member" (emphasis added). In other words, governments can use SDRs as they see fit.

The confusion over the nature and status of SDRs stems, in part, from the IMF's own misclassification of these assets. As Arauz points out, prior to the release of the IMF's latest balance-of-payments manual (BPM6) in 2009, SDR allocations were treated as equity rather than as liabilities that recipient countries must repay. The BPM6, however, reclassified them as liabilities, essentially treating them as debt. This change, which was made without clear reasoning or transparent discussion, must be contested, because it can deter the use, transfer, and recycling of SDRs, preventing allocations from fulfilling their potential.

Some countries, particularly in Latin America, have demonstrated creativity in their use of SDRs. Ecuador, for example, used them to finance its 2021 investment plan. The same year, Paraguay channeled its allocation to investments in health, education, housing, and other public expenditures, and Argentina used its $4.6 billion allocation to pay off maturing debt, fulfilling its obligations to the IMF.

In other countries, central banks' perceived role as the custodian of SDRs did not completely restrict alternative uses. Colombia, for example, used SDRs to facilitate a domestic debt swap between the government and the central bank and generate short-term liquidity. Although Mexico's central bank asserted its ownership of the country's SDRs, the Mexican government acquired international reserves from it through a currency exchange in late 2021.

The current crisis is an opportunity to construct a fairer, more sustainable international monetary system. A sensible reform agenda must include increased SDR issuance and the creation of more efficient and equitable distribution mechanisms. To achieve this, the G7 countries, as the IMF's largest shareholders, must demonstrate a modicum of wisdom and leadership.

Jayati Ghosh, Professor of Economics at the University of Massachusetts Amherst, is a former member of the UN Secretary-General's High-Level Advisory Board on Effective Multilateralism.

Copyright: Project Syndicate, 2023. www.project-syndicate.org

FEATURE ARTICLE

Bong: Aspirants violate NEC's mandate?

By: Joseph Titus Yekeryan

t seems that some aspirants in Bong and Lofa Counties are violating the mandate from the National Elections Commission; refusing to However, the NEC in its release "said failure to comply with its mandate would lead to consequences."

"While en-route to work this morning, I bring down their flyers and billboards that have inscriptions of voter registration awareness in the counties.

Prior to the end of the second phase of the Biometric Voter Registration, the National encountered several posters and billboards of would-be aspirants along the streets of Gbarnga. I am certain that there are a lot more posted in rural areas" Prince Eric Cooper, the Regional Coordinator of NYMOTE said.

"NEC, you are under an obligation to ensure our Elections Commission released a statement mandating all would-be aspirants to take down BVR awareness flyers immediately after the end of the exercise.

"The National Elections Commission mandates that on or before midnight 15 May 2023, all would-be aspirants must take down or remove their billboards, posters, banners, jingles, dramas, utterance and other forms of promotional paraphernalia from where they are situated" the release said.

The NEC said failure to comply with its mandate would lead to consequences for the candidate nomination process, which commences on June 14, and ends on 14 July 2023.

It is little over a week since the end of the second phase of the Biometric Voter Registration in Bong, Lofa, Nimba and six other Counties in Liberia.

But billboards and flyers are still placed in the streets and on public facilities in Bong and most parts of Lofa County.

This has made a lot of people to question the NEC whether it is serious about its own mandate.

electoral laws are adhered to. We are looking forward to the consequences they will face during the candidate nomination exercise" He added.

According to our Bong County Correspondent, some despite the NEC's mandate.

"NEC supposed to take action against them, you can't be fighting to serve higher position in the County then you be violating the laws of the land" Jerry Binda, a resident of Gbarnga told the local media on Friday.

NEW DAWN

Mr. Daniel Newland, the upper Bong County NEC Magistrate said besides at the National level, they have warned all would-be aspirants at the level of the county to bring down their billboards and that they are taking keen on anyone who would violate. When asked whether they have already tracked down names of violators, he said "as far as I am concerned, the NEC is working, and our works will not close eyes on anyone who will violate the guidelines of the National Elections Commission. At the Bong-Lofa border (Waterside), there are series of billboards that are still planted according to our Correspondent. Also in Panta District, Representative Robert Womba and Mr. Emmanuel Urey still have posters there.

Our Correspondent said in Gbarnga, former Vice President Joseph N. Boakai, Representative Edward Karfiah and Mr. Johnny K. Kpehe have not brought down some of their posters and billboards.

Even though Jorquelleh District Representative Josiah Marvin Cole earlier claimed that he has brought down all of his billboards, our Correspondent says he has actually not done so.

Others are Mr. Sayblee Weyea, the chairman of the Congress for Democratic Change and Mr. Paul T. Wheeler, a staff in the offices of Vice President Jewel Howard Taylor.

There are people in the county who still doubt whether actions will be taken against would-be aspirants who are violating the NEC guidelines.

"My brother we all know that this country only good at making law, but the implementation aspect is always faced with problems. All these things that are happening, I know full well that NEC will not do anything about it because since I knew myself and been following politics in the Country, not a day NEC has denied anyone or punish anyone for doing pre-campaign" Alexander Forkpah told our Correspondent.

parts of Gbarnga and its environs are still flooded with flyers and billboards and those responsible seem to be paying deaf ears in bringing them down Forkpah believes that if NEC starts to take action, it will deter other people who may want to violate the laws of the commission.

MORE HEADLINE NEWS

MORE HEADLINE NEWS

Rep. Zarzar receives honorary Doctorate degree

2023

By Bridgett Milton

district#3 Matthew G. Zarzar has received an honorary Doctorate degree from St. Michael's Christian University.

and universal access to University for the honor, noting inoe County electoral education, among others.

Dr. Victor Akoh of St. Representative Michael's Christian University conferred the honor on the Liberian lawmaker in the University has not only honored conference room of the Capitol Building on Capitol Hill in

"Dr. Zarzar's five decades of public service with clean integrity has paid off." Sen. Chea noted that the

Rep. Zarzar, but also the people of Sinoe County. Speaker Bhofal Chambers in remarks said Dr. Zarzar is a man of impeccable character and the conferment was not a mistake. Prior to becoming a lawmaker, Dr. Zarzar served as Deputy Minister for Administration at the Ministry of Education; General Manager, at the National Bank of Liberia; Deputy Managing Director, LPRC, Deputy Minister for Revenue, Ministry of Finance; and Assistant Minister for Expenditure & Debt Management, respectively, Ministry of Finance.

He also served as Administrator, at Nisako Services, Minnesota, USA; Manager, Lutheran Social Service, Minnesota, USA, Instructor, at North Hennepin College, Hennepin College, MN, USA, Accounts Receivable Coordinator, Courage Center, Minnesota, U.S.A, and specialist, Bank Merger Team, USBankCorp, Minnesota, USA, Vice President, Agricultural and Cooperative Development Bank, and Accounts Payable Contractor-IBM, Silver Spring, Maryland, USA, among others.

St. Michael's Christian Monrovia. University based in the United Capacity Development.

recognition of his five decades Zarzar responded. of exemplary commitment as a

"It is an honor and pride to States of America Friday, May be conferred with this honor. It 19, conferred the honorary is prophetic and therefore, I Doctorate on Rep. Zarzar in humbly accept this honorary Community and Human degree, grateful that my hard work, dedication, passion and The honorary degree was commitment as a public servant given to him in grateful are acknowledged," Rep.

Speaking at the ceremony, public servant, lawmaker, and Senator Cllr. Augustine Chea, an advocate of social concerns chairman of Sinoe County such as promotion of social Legislative Caucus, thanked the justice, human rights, peace, administration of St. Michael's

LNBA calls for more sanctions to protect Liberia's peace and stability

- Condemns disturbance at PYJ church

By Lincoln G. Peters

he Liberian National Bar Association is appealing to the International Community, particularly the United States government for the imposition of more sanctions and other measures to jealously protect the peace and stability of the country.

The LNBA through its National Secretary General Cllr. Bornor M. Varmah in a press statement released on Monday, May 22, also appealed to the Economic Community of West African States, and African Union urging them to not sit by and let Liberia degenerate into conflict.

"The Bar calls for monitoring marred the political landscape and gravely threatens the civil liberty, freedom of expression and association as guaranteed under the 1986 constitution" the LNBA

According to the LNBA, the attacks are intended to harass and intimidate prominent citizens and members of the public in the months leading to the upcoming elections and could have a chilling effect throughout the country.

The LNBA urged the Liberian government to take all necessary steps to prevent acts of motivated violence and refrain from all inflammatory actions that could incite similar attacks or deter people from enjoying their civil liberties ahead of the elections.

RETRAP begins weeklong training at CA Counties amongst others.

By: Alex N. Mofageh

he Ministry of in Bong County.

Liberian-owned agribenefiting from the training.

training on Monday, the Grand Bassa, Bomi, and Nimba Technical Advisor and Animal Health Specialist under the Ministry of Agriculture's RETRAP Project, Dr. Etagegnehu Belayneh said the exercise will also nurture farmers in pottery management, piggery, vegetable and also Rubber and palm production amongst several others.

She said Liberia as a country has over the past been challenged when it comes to a clear understanding of what needs to be done in these areas and as such, farmers find it difficult to grow their crops or safeguard livestock.

"We want to encourage all Agriculture under its of you to be focused during the RETRAP Project has course of the training if you begun a weeklong training on must obtain the technical improving productivity and knowledge required to boost market access for smallholder your productivity in farmers at the Central agribusinesses in your Agriculture Research Institute respective communities" she

The exercise according to enterprises for selected value our Correspondent has brought chains in the project together over twenty-five participating counties are also participants from seven of Liberia's fifteen counties Giving an overview of the including Bong, Montserrado,

The Rural Economic Transformation Project (RETRAP) supports the GoL Pro-Poor Agenda for Prosperity and Development (PAPD) and the MoA threeyear strategy plan for the Agriculture sector which provides an approach to building an agribusiness ecosystem aimed at dealing with the twin issues of Liberia's inability to meet domestic food requirements, to export at quality levels required for market success.

the actions of anti-democratic elements and the immediate imposition of sanctions and other measures to jealously protect the peace of the Varmah noted.

Church of Nimba County Senator Prince Y. Johnson, LNBA says the attack and disruption of normal worship service was outrageous. He further described it as a pure act of provocation to undermine the peace and stability of the country.

" The LNBA condemns the attack on the normal worship service at the Christ Chapel of Faith Church of Senator Prince Y. Johnson on Sunday, May 21, 2023, by men believed to be partisans of both the NPP and the CDC youth wings. The LNBA says this is outrageous and a pure act of provocation to undermine the peace of the country. We are utterly dismayed over such cruel act of violence which has repeatedly

LNBA noted that the government is under obligation by law to protect life and property and must ensure that the needful is done consistent with Article 20(a) country" the LNBA statement which provides that "No person under the signature of Cllr. shall be deprived of life, liberty, security of the person, property, Commenting on the Sunday privilege or any other right except attack at Christ Chapel of Faith as the outcome of hearing judgment consistent with provision laid down in the constitution in accordance with due process" they noted.

The LNBA further called on the government to immediately and unconditionally launch a thorough independent and impartial investigation to ensure that perpetrators are brought to Justice in fair trial before a court of competent jurisdiction.

Cllr. Varmah warned that such reckless acts by anti-peace elements must not be treated as business as usual, stressing that only adherence to the principle of the rule of law can guarantee the peaceful co-existence of all Liberians.

MORE HEADLINE NEWS

2023

MORE HEADLINE NEWS

Ex-Finance Minister descends on Liberian politician point where the well-being and interests of the people are on Liberian politician

- savs self-interest above citizens well-being

By Lincoln G. Peters

being of the people.

and a Dire Warning to the Liberia" Mr. Barnes wonders. People of Liberia, Amb. Barnes legislative elections.

becomes guite obvious that they ormer Finance Minister are clearly dominated by the M. Nathaniel Barnes institutional and personal says the current agendas of the various political political space is flooded and parties and personalities as dominated by politicians and opposed to the crucial political institutions that are wellbeing of the people of more focused on their personal Liberia. How does animosity agenda instead of the well- between Vice President Jewel Howard Taylor and Senator In a statement issued Prince Johnson address the Monday, May 22, 2023, titled: issues of injustice, "An Appeal to the So-Called marginalization and poverty Leaders/Politicians of Liberia experienced by the people of

"How do personal urged Liberians to be mindful as differences between former to who they elect during the Vice President Joseph Boakai October 10 presidential and and Presidential Candidate Alexander Cummings address well-being of the people of He questioned. Liberia rather than their selfish desires.

Liberians to test the spirit.

"When one looks at the country. dynamics of today's Liberia, it dynamics have denigrated to a potential he concluded.

Accordingly, he also the dire consequences of appealed to political parties unemployment, poor health and their leaders to consider an care delivery systems, and an agenda that is dominated by the appalling educational system?

The former Finance Minister personal and institutional pondered, how President George M. Weah's refusal to He observed that the current address the issues of massive political space is influenced by corruption, injustice and the politicians whose political absence of effective law agendas are controlled by greed enforcement while focusing on and selfishness, urging his own political agenda bring relief to the masses of the conversation and political It is obvious that the political nowhere on the radar screen of those seeking to be elected. It is high time that the leaders of political institutions regroup and review or overhaul their strategy for electability and effective leadership" Mr. Barnes urged.

He asserted that the current approach of personalizing the issues can only escalate to violence that no Liberian wishes to re-witness.

He further observed that every leader of political institutions and a vast majority of their members and constituents have been impacted by Liberia's violent history, be it as a perpetrator or supporter of the violence or as a victim.

"Any Liberian who loves Mama Liberia would instinctively step away from this particular path. We desperately appeal to all political institutions and their leaders to consider an agenda that is dominated by the wellbeing of the people of Liberia rather than their selfish personal and institutional desires" Mr. Barnes urged.

Speaking to the consciousness of Liberia, the Ex-Finance Minister appealed to Liberians to consider the many recent events described on social media and personally experienced by some of them as "Red Flags."

"They are indicators that we are, once again, headed in a seriously wrong direction comprising a breakdown of civility, respect for law and human dignity and potential violence. Be aware, People of Liberia, of these Red Flags! Do not underestimate the POWER that you have to change the direction in which we are being swept; and strive to take your DESTINY in your hands. You alone can prevent another catastrophe that will thwart our reaching our God-given authorities.

Stand-off at Arcelor Mitta

Starts from back page

Our reporter who was on the its MDA. scene said, the citizens were angered by the news that citizens' anticipation is that Emergency Response Unit used instead of constructing the when the Washing Plant is Washing Plant in their county constructed in Buchanan, as initially agreed upon, the Grand Bassa County it would company was allegedly seen create job opportunities for moving materials to them, but taking same to neighboring Nimba County for Yekepa, Nimba County is

The leader of the protesters needed jobs. Abraham King Jones, who meetings with local journalists that Mittal Steel have refused to meet with the Liberia has failed to live up to

According to Jones, the construction of the plant. depriving them of much-

He said several attempts to sustained injury during the meet with management to protest, when police tried to reconsider their decision have to comply after several calm the situation told failed, as company officials people.

> Jones alleged that an unidentified officer of the the back of his gun to hit his head. The citizens have vowed to continue their protest till Arcelor Mittal can comply with the MDA.

> Attempts to get a response from the Company's Communication Department did not materialize as of press

By Naneka Hoffman

ational Muslim Council of Liberia (NMCL) has inducted into office, new corps of officials to steer the affairs of the Association.

Those inducted include Alhajii Abraham F. Sheriff, National Executive Chairman, Sherikh Mohammed M. Konneh National Vice Chairman For Administration, Sheirkh Abdulrahman I. Sow, Vice Chairman for Operations: Dr. Abbas S. Kanneh, National Vice Chairman For Religious Affairs, Sister Amna V. Sherif Vice Chairperson For Women's Affairs, A.F. Kuku Reeves National Secretary General, and Vannie S. Momolu National Deputy Secretary General, respectively.

Speaking at the induction ceremony over the weekend at the Ministerial Complex in Congo Town, the newly elected Chairman Alhaji Abraham F. Sheriff says Muslims in Liberia, in the midst of lack of meaningful progress over several years, characterized by disunity, excessive greed and continuous quest for personal wealth and glory; corruption, envy and hate, became semblance of a failed Ummah.

The National Muslim Council of Liberia Executive Chairman Sheriff explained that widows and orphans amongst Muslims were largely abandoned, Islamic education system collapsed, homes became multi-faith, while brothers and sisters in public services no longer saw corruption and injustice as crimes.

Chairman Sheriff continues that school-going children no longer saw immortality, indecency and cheating as offenses that corrupt society and are subject to severe punishment by Allah. In short, he says Muslims had started to totally forget that, accountability on the Day of Judgment is a divine promise with severe punishment awaiting the guilty ones.

He further noted that Allah said in the Holy Quran Surat "Verily, Allah does not change the condition of a people until they (first) change their ways and their minds."

He said over the years, Muslims have changed from good to bad, the consequence of which they have suffered, but now they have started a new journey to change from bad to good.

'Today's ceremony marks an important turn in that direction of change for the better.

'Don't put Liberia in trouble' Starts on page 11

hospital and others interred as a tote bundles on their heads result of violence.

He says if Liberian politicians don't stop the way they are proceeding, the problem that will emerge will be bigger than Ebola. "I'm saying this; I'm a senior citizen who served this country for 37 years, beginning from school principal to representative."

He warns those in government and in opposition to not revert the country to another 14 years of Kotee says it would be foolhardy for any Liberian to think that the international community will spend its taxpayers' money on politicians' foolishness, adding that it's not going to happen.

"VP Taylor and Senator Johnson - none of them is on their private plantation. They work for us and if we don't speak now, people will again", he warns.

He notes there are some Liberians who think they can cause chaos and escape to another country to live because they have amassed stolen wealth.

Kotee further laments that is totally shameful and disgraceful after 170 years of existence, Liberians are still backward in everything despite the abundance of natural resources the country is endowed with, principally because of corruption and bad governance.

The political atmosphere in the country of 5 million people, according to preliminary census results, is charged with politicians throwing jives at one another, including words of war, as Liberians go to elections in October. Editing by Jonathan Browne

NEW DAWN

rançais

Le Libéria et la BAD signent un accord de don de 3,9 millions de dollars pour améliorer le système de paiement du pays

2023

Libéria (GOL) et la signé jeudi un accord pour millions de dollars américains pour financer la mise à niveau de l'infrastructure et du e gouvernement du de règlement brut en temps réel.

Le support renforce également Banque africaine de le centre de données principal et développement (BAD) ont les sites de récupération de la CBL.

L'effort vise à renforcer une subvention de 3,872 l'écosystème de paiement au Libéria pour une efficacité accrue, à favoriser la croissance et l'innovation et à préparer le pays à Lors de la cérémonie de signature le jeudi 18 mai 2023 au ministère des Finances et de la Planification du développement, le gouverneur exécutif de la Banque centrale Aloysius Tarlue a remercié le directeur pays de la BAD M. Benedict Kanu pour son soutien système de paiement de la Banque centrale du Libéria.

Conseil d'administration de la BAD a approuvé le financement le 17 mars 2023, en s'appuyant sur le projet de développement des paiements de 2016 que la BAD avait précédemment soutenu pour mettre à niveau le traitement automatisé des chèques et la chambre de compensation et le système infrastructurel pour le NEPS.

une intégration régionale accrue. Il devrait également maximiser le potentiel de renforcement du secteur financier, de construction de la stabilité financière et de réduction du fossé de l'inclusion financière.

Comme la CBL a déjà mobilisé 9 millions de dollars auprès de la Banque mondiale pour construire le système national de paiement électronique, NEPS, le soutien de la BAD fournira le soutien à la réalisation du projet.

« L'objectif principal du projet est de renforcer l'écosystème de paiement au Libéria pour une efficacité accrue et de favoriser la croissance et l'innovation. Il cible les processus automatisés, la chambre de compensation automatisée, le système de règlement brut en temps réel qui constituent

➤ CONT'D ON PAGE 09

Mauvaises routes : Les citoyens s'en prennent au Président Chambers pour être passé par Côte d'Ivoire

Pleebo, dans le comté du Maryland, ont critiqué le président de la Chambre des représentants Bhofal Chambers pour avoir emprunté une route passant dans le sud-est du Libéria.

Les citoyens sont en colère contre M. Chambers parce qu'il trouve du réconfort en passant par la Côte d'Ivoire pour éviter la route déplorable du sud-est, après que le gouvernement dirigé par la Coalition pour le changement démocratique (CDC) a échoué de construire la route.

Le gouvernement a du mal à allouer les ressources nationales de manière à ce que les citoyens ordinaires ressentent positivement son impact, en particulier en ce qui concerne le secteur des infrastructures routières, la santé et l'éducation. Pourtant, tant d'argent est lusieurs citoyens de alloué chaque année aux hauts n'ont pas le privilège comme cadres élus comme le Président de la Chambre des représentants, son adjoint, le président du sénat, le Président de la République et son Vice-président, entre autres.

Le budget de M. Chambers, est par la Côte d'Ivoire voisine d'environ 3 millions de dollars. Il dans son comté natal du pour se rendre dans le comté, est de loin supérieur à ce qui est Maryland, M. Chambers est alloué au plus grand hôpital public passé par la Côte d'Ivoire pour John F. Kennedy Medical Center.

Les millions de Libériens qui

M. Chambers d'emprunter la route ivoirienne ne peuvent que risquer leur vie sur les mauvaises routes qu'évite le président de la Chambre.

Lors de sa récente visite

CONT'D ON PAGE 09

Éditorial

La montée en flèche du taux de change est insupportable

Les Libériens assistent, impuissants, à une augmentation soudaine du taux de change entre le dollar américain et le dollar libérien. 1 USD est passé de 150 LRD à 168 voire 170 dollars libériens en seulement un mois.

La hausse soudaine du taux de change crée des augmentations correspondantes des prix des produits de base, en particulier la nourriture, le carburant et les frais de transport, imposant de sérieuses contraintes aux citoyens ordinaires.

L'opposant Tiawan Saye Gongloe, candidat à la prochaine présidentielle, a récemment dit que la hausse rapide du taux de change est attribuable à l'injection incontrôlée de dollars libériens sur le marché par les dignitaires du régime de la Coalition pour le changement démocratique (CDC) pour séduire les électeurs pour la réélection du président George Manneh Weah.

« Ils mettent une grande masse de dollars libériens en circulation et gardent les dollars américains. Ils économisent les dollars américains parce qu'ils ne sont pas trop sûrs de gagner les élections », a-t-il expliqué.

Les membres du parti au pouvoir, aussi bien ceux qui ont un poste que ceux qui n'en ont pas actuellement, distribuent d'énormes quantités de dollars libériens aux citoyens de tout le pays pour renforcer leurs chances d'être élus et réélus. Cela a bien sûr de graves conséquences négatives pour le pays dont l'économie est fortement dépendante des importations.

Economiste et professeur de droit, Me Gongloe a averti que les Libériens ordinaires vont être poussés à l'extrême pauvreté et aux difficultés en raison de ce qui se passe dans le pays, où d'énormes quantités de dollars libériens est en quête des quelques dollars américains disponibles.

« Sur le plan économique, ce qui se passe actuellement est terrible pour le Libéria. D'ici les élections, la vie sera beaucoup plus difficile que les Libériens n'ont jamais imaginé », a-t-il prévenu.

Avant même le début officiel de la campagne, la Coalition pour le changement démocratique au pouvoir mène une série de projets politiques dans plusieurs comtés, dont Lofa et Nimba, pour adoucir le terrain et rallier le soutien des citovens.

Comme cela a été le cas lors de l'élection présidentielle de 2017 et de l'élection sénatoriale spéciale de 2020, lorsque les candidats du parti au pouvoir ont distribué des millions de dollars libériens aux communautés et aux électeurs, et ont inondé le marché, une répétition similaire est attendue, alors que les Libériens se rendront aux urnes le 10 octobre.

Nous ne pouvons que rejoindre Me Gongloe pour prévenir nos compatriotes libériens de se serrer la ceinture et de se préparer aux conséquences économiques négatives pendant et après les élections auxquelles ils devraient faire face en conséquence directe des dépenses électorales, bien que la loi électorale du Libéria ait un plafond sur le financement des campagnes.

ran

Le Libéria et la BAD signent un accord

l'épine dorsale des processus de système de paiement du Libéria. paiement dans le pays », a déclaré le gouverneur exécutif Libéria mettra en œuvre ce de la CBL lors de la signature de projet, mais elle ne sera pas l'accord.

également la mise à niveau du les banques commerciales. Cela centre de données principal de la aidera d'autres institutions CBL - un site de reprise après gouvernementales à numériser sinistre. Il devrait avoir un leurs activités et leurs paiements impact sur les institutions et les et, ce faisant, à promouvoir ministères et organismes l'inclusion financière non gouvernementaux impliqués seulement pour les jeunes mais dans les paiements. Parmi les aussi pour les femmes, ce qui autres bénéficiaires figurent les facilitera le transfert d'argent banques commerciales et leurs d'une maison à l'autre dans clients, qui bénéficieront tous l'espace visuel », a déclaré M. de services améliorés. Le projet Kanou. contribuera également à « Cela va également accroître l'inclusion financière contribuer à renforcer le en favorisant l'intégration développement du secteur régionale grâce à une mise à privé. Ce sera à nouveau niveau technologique vers le l'occasion de promouvoir cet statut requis.

l'importance de la facilité de thème que nous connaissons tous subvention, le responsable pays - l'intégration générale au sein de la BAD a déclaré qu'elle de l'Union du fleuve Mano et auaméliorera la numérisation du delà.

« La Banque centrale du seule. Ils feront appel à des Le processus impliquera acteurs du secteur privé tels que aspect tout en rendant un Soulignant également service très important à un

uvaises routes : Les citoyens

entrer dans le district de Pleebo Sodoken.

district, c'est honteux. Ils mécontentement. trouvent inadmissible qu'un mauvais état.

sommes la cause des problèmes dans son village. que nous traversons dans ce législateur qui est le troisième soulager les citoyens ordinaires. homme de cette administration ivoirienne. Alors, comment pluies. peut-il plaider en faveur des concernant les mauvaises aune mauvaise réputation. routes, M. Chambers a bénéficié le comté de Maryland.

participer à l'opération peuple. d'inscription biométrique des électeurs (BVR) de la fois que M. Chambers passe par la Commission électorale nationale Côte d'Ivoire, il en a l'habitude. (NEC).

jeunes, des femmes, des chefs a déclaré un autre critique. religieux et traditionnels, entre autres, renouvelant leur le comté, le président Chambers engagement à réélire non s'est identifié à plusieurs seulement M. Chambers, mais le citoyens et a fait des dons en président sortant George espèces. Manneh Weah en octobre.

Cependant d'autres citoyens se disant désabusés lui ont fait Pour certains habitants de ce des critiques et fait part de leur

Ils trouvent inadmissible que législateur abandonne les routes pendant que plusieurs véhicules qui mènent à son comté pour qui transportent des citoyens emprunter la route d'un autre libériens à travers le comté de pays parce que sa route est de Grand Kru vers le Maryland sont embourbés, Chambers traverse "Nous voulons dire ceci, nous la Côte d'Ivoire pour se rendre

En tout cas, ils pensaient que pays, en particulier le district de M. Chambers songerait à Pleebo Sodoken. Parce qu'un l'entretien des routes pour

Les routes du sud-est du Weah abandonne ses propres Libéria sont un défi majeur. Elles routes à cause de leur mauvais sont quasiment impraticables état et utilise la route surtout pendant les saisons des

M. Chambers, selon ses budgets pour les routes ? C'est détracteurs, est l'un des honteux », a déclaré un critique. législateurs à cause desquels Malgré les difficultés des gens l'administration dirigée par Weah

Pour eux, le simple fait qu'il d'un accueil chaleureux de la est obligé de passer par la Côte part de son peuple dans le d'Ivoire pour se rendre dans son district de Pleebo Sodoken, dans comté de Maryland après 6 ans de pouvoir indique qu'il n'a rien Il s'est rendu à Pleebo pour fait de bon pour soulager son

Ce n'est pas pour la première "Nous pensions que la façon dont Ses partisans de la il avait été critiqué pour avoir circonscription lui ont promis utilisé la route lors de sa visite qu'ils le rééliront massivement. dans le sud-est, il ne l'utiliserait Ils ont organisé un programme plus. Mais il a ignoré nos appels, élaboré sur la place de Pleebo montrant qu'il ne regrette pas la City avec des auxiliaires, des façon dont son peuple est traité",

Lors de sa récente visite dans

Par Pinelopi Koujianou

es sujets tabous de la politique climatique

mensonges et l'obstruction du pays. √négationnisme climatique ont arguments solides en faveur des taxes carbone fragmenté. comme étant la meilleure solution, cette savoir les États-Unis).

Mais comme pour les taxes sur le carbone, cet réformes institutionnelles. argument est tombé dans l'oreille d'un sourd. message passe de sitôt.

Ayant pris l'engagement d'aider les économies bâton. en développement face au changement des intérêts souvent contradictoires semble qui ont conduit à la crise climatique actuelle. une tâche impossible. Par exemple, alors que certaines économies en développement sont Reste la stratégie de la carotte, qui prendrait la privées de sources d'énergie.

revenu. La Chine, la plus pauvre du groupe, nouveau géant de la pollution. représente environ 30 % de toutes les émissions, ce qui en fait de loin le plus grand Pinelopi Koujianou Goldberg, ancienne économiste pour accélérer la transition vers l'énergie enseigne l'économie à l'Université de Yale. verte - une stratégie gagnante, compte tenu

EW HAVEN - À présent que les de l'abondance des métaux de terres rares dans le finalement été réduits au silence, la lutte L'Inde, le troisième plus grand émetteur, contre le changement climatique est devenue représente actuellement environ 7 % des émissions la première priorité mondiale. Mais le temps mondiales de CO2 et sa taille et sa trajectoire de presse et le Fonds monétaire international croissance impliquent qu'elle pourrait facilement met en garde contre le fait que tout retard dépasser la Chine en tant que premier pollueur, à supplémentaire dans la mise en œuvre de moins d'appliquer des politiques climatiques plus politiques visant à atténuer le réchauffement fortes. En fait, lorsqu'il s'agit d'aider les pays en climatique ne fera qu'augmenter le coût développement à décarboner, des progrès économique de la transition vers une considérables pourraient être réalisés simplement économie à faibles émissions. Pire encore, il en ciblant l'Inde seule. Le grand avantage de cette nous manque encore une stratégie concrète et stratégie est qu'elle éviterait la paralysie associée pragmatique pour résoudre le problème. Bien aux tentatives d'adopter une approche que les économistes aient présenté des multilatérale dans un monde de plus en plus option s'est révélée politiquement infaisable, Cela ne signifie pas que nous devrions éviter les du moins dans les pays qui représentent projets d'atténuation ou d'adaptation climatique certaines des émissions les plus élevées (à dans d'autres pays. Mais nous n'aurions pas besoin d'attendre que tout le monde soit d'accord avant de faire quoi que ce soit. Ceux qui insistent sur une Les commentateurs ont également souligné approche multilatérale devraient tirer les lecons de que le changement climatique est un l'expérience de l'institution multilatérale ultime : problème commun impliquant des l'Organisation mondiale du commerce. L'exigence externalités transfrontalières importantes qui selon laquelle chaque disposition d'un accord doivent être traitées par une approche multilatéral bénéficie d'un soutien unanime l'a de multilatérale par une coordination mondiale. plus en plus paralysée, ce qui a poussé à des

En outre, compte tenu du climat géopolitique Bien sûr, l'Inde n'est pas une cible facile. Elle est actuel et de la fragmentation croissante de riche en charbon et n'a que peu d'incitations (aul'économie mondiale, il y a peu d'espoir que le delà de la santé de ses citoyens) à accélérer la transition vers l'énergie verte. En nous concentrant sur l'Inde, nous devrions employer la carotte, pas le climatique, la Banque mondiale se trouve Puisque le bâton prend généralement la forme de limitée par le modèle national qui sous-tend pressions pour mettre en œuvre la taxation du ses opérations de financement. Elle pèse carbone, une telle démarche est vouée à l'échec. sérieusement ses options et considère de Une taxe serait inefficace, car elle entraînerait une quelle manière elle pourrait coordonner le opposition intérieure massive (comme cela a été le financement lié au climat au-delà des cas aux États-Unis). Elle serait également frontières. Mais même si ces efforts sont bien moralement répréhensible, car il est injuste de intentionnés et conformes à l'esprit du demander à un pays à revenu intermédiaire multilatéralisme, elle va retarder inférieur d'assumer le fardeau de la réduction des inévitablement une action concrète. Le émissions de CO2 lorsque les pays riches (comme les financement de la Banque mondiale risque Etats-Unis) n'ont pas fait de même. En outre, même d'être complètement restructuré et la si la Chine et l'Inde sont aujourd'hui deux des plus coordination de l'action dans plusieurs pays grands pollueurs de la planète, ils n'ont que peu de ayant des ressources financières limitées et responsabilité pour les émissions cumulées passées riches en combustibles fossiles, d'autres sont forme d'incitations fiscales ou de subventions pour soutenir l'énergie verte. Lorsqu'elles sont associées à d'autres politiques, elles peuvent aider les Compte tenu de ces limites, le pragmatisme entreprises à s'adapter à des normes impose de concentrer l'attention sur les plus environnementales plus exigeantes (comme celles grands pollueurs. Les émissions mondiales de associées à un programme de plafonnement et dioxyde de carbone ne sont concentrées que d'échange). Mais de telles politiques sont dans une poignée de pays et de régions. La coûteuses, ce qui signifie que la lutte contre le Chine, les États-Unis, l'Union européenne, le changement climatique exigera que les pays riches Japon et la Russie représentent les aident dans leur financement. Que l'Inde collectivement 63 % du total et aucun de ces devienne ou non la nouvelle Chine, elle est encore principaux pollueurs n'est plus un pays à faible en mesure de s'assurer qu'elle ne devienne pas le pollueur actuel du monde en termes absolus, en chef du Groupe de la Banque mondiale et Mais son gouvernement prend des mesures rédactrice en chef de American Economic Review,

Copyright: Project Syndicate, 2022. www.project-syndicate.org

ARTICLE ARTICLE

Liberia's Biological Diversity is its Economic Power Horse

By Stephen Rodriques, UNDP Liberia Resident Representative

iberia prides itself as a nation endowed with a substantial share of global biodiversity. The country is regarded as one of the biodiversity hotspots in the world, and one which contains the highest remaining portion (42%) of the Upper Guinea Forest, which is regarded as one of the three lungs of the world extending from Guinea into eastern Sierra Leone, and eastward through Liberia, Côte d'Ivoire and Ghana into western Togo. The forest is characterized by high endemism, boasting over 2000 plant species, 600 bird species, 75 reptile species, and 150 mammal species.

This would not have been the case for the wonderful nature-loving people of Liberia, and without recognizing the tradeoffs that come with maintaining such a rich global asset on more than two-thirds of the country's land area that is equivalent to twice the size of Belgium. Half of the people of Liberia live within 2.5 kilometers of a forest, with each household spending more than three hours daily collecting forest products for subsistence and for sale. With half of the country earning 35% of its income (World Bank, 2020) from forests, this resource is under great threat with reports of rapid decline in the country's biodiversity. Liberia's natural resources are critical for economic growth and delivering the pro-poor agenda for development (PAPD) as well as the sustainable development goals (SDGs).

The threats to Liberia's biodiversity include increasing population pressure, competition for biological resources for food, shelter, and energy, plantation crops in areas of high conservation value, the outdated slash and burn shifting cultivation, poaching and hunting, unregulated timber extraction, charcoal burning, artisanal and small-scale mining, invasive species, insufficient public education and awareness, limited national investment in biodiversity conservation and inadequate law enforcement.

The International Day for Biological Diversity, observed on 22 May, presents the government and people of Liberia as well as partners and other stakeholders the opportunity to take a step back and reflect on the enormous biodiversity in the country and what it means for Liberia's future. This year's theme 'From Agreement to Action: Build Back Biodiversity' calls for a whole-of-society approach to implementing Liberia's national biodiversity strategy goals. This is in line with the historic Kunming-Montréal Global Biodiversity Framework that aims to safeguard the world's nature, halt and reverse biodiversity loss by 2030, and put nature on a path to recovery by 2050. Liberia is expected to develop its implementation plans for the Conference of the Parties (COP16) in 2024, and UNDP is ready to support this process.

Liberia ratified the United Nations Convention on Biological Diversity on 8 November 2000. The then Head of State and Chairman of the then National Transitional Government, H.E. Charles Gyude Bryant noted in the foreword to Liberia's National Biodiversity Strategy & Action Plan (2004): "The achievement of biodiversity conservation must be fully participatory. I call on everyone, including all citizens of Liberia, foreigners within our borders, United Nations and other development partners, and the private sector to work in concert to conserve Liberia's rich biodiversity ... by ensuring that our actions are environmentally friendly, and mitigating adverse effects on our dwindling biodiversity and fragile ecosystems. I have no doubt that Liberia will follow the path on which nations seen as good examples of friends of the environment walk and that we will not be found relenting on this course. However, I wish to stress that the situation is urgent, and the time to act is now, as tomorrow will be too late. Just as we sing the "LONE STAR FOREVER", let us shout, "DEPLETION OF BIODIVERSITY NEVER."

Kudos to the current government for creating the space for public discourse and embracing the rich exchange of views on natural resource management in Liberia. While it can be stated that the many fora have been somehow successful in documenting and elevating the concerns for biodiversity conservation at the top level of government, now is the time for national investments that would catalyze and unlock global resources to support the implementation of the national biodiversity action plans, including enforcement of relevant laws and policies.

In 1999 the Government, with support from UNDP, established the National Environmental Commission of Liberia (NECOLIB) to oversee all environmental activities in the country, serve as the coordinating institution for the environment and come up with relevant policies and laws. NECOLIB drafted the National Environmental Policy of Liberia, the Environment Protection and Management Law, and the Environment Protection Agency Act, leading to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) creation in December 2003. The EPA produces State of the Environment (SOE) reports.

In collaboration with civil society, government, and partners, the government of Liberia in 2006 developed a new forestry legal framework with several progressive initiatives, including formal recognition of communities' rights to their customary forestlands, empowering local populations to participate in forest governance and benefit from forestry revenue, increase participation and access to forestry information and civil society right to independently monitor forestry operations, a complementary land reform reinforcing community rights over forestland through the adoption of a Land Rights Policy in 2013 and the government granting equal legal protection to customary land.

Liberia is preparing for national consultations on the next National Biodiversity Strategy and Action Plan (NBSAP), which UNDP stands ready to support. There is a need to engage all levels of government, forest-dependent people, stakeholders, non-governmental organizations, academia, women, youth, and local communities to ensure that the strategy reflects a broad national perspective and consensus. It is also important to take stock and deeply reflect on the last NBSAP on what has been achieved and what is yet to be realized. For example, while past and current efforts by the government and people of Liberia to conserve biodiversity are commendable, the expected results and deliverables have not been entirely forthcoming.

Going forward, the following recommendations from Liberia's most recent State of the Environment Report (2007-2018) are worth considering:

• Ensure that environmental plans and policies, such as the NBSAP are integrated into the overall national development plan so that the whole of government is involved in managing and safeguarding the country's rich environmental resources which are also vital economic assets.

- The formulation of the new NBSAP should be backed by a comprehensive enforceable regulatory framework that balances biodiversity conservation with the need to harness the country's immense natural resources for the implementation of the propoor agenda for prosperity and development. This means mechanisms for shared responsibility among Liberia's ministries, agencies, and commissions must be designed to ensure coordinated planning, control, and implementation of the country's biodiversity hotspots.
- The adoption of an economic approach to the valuation of forests and woodlands to ensure that informed decisions on the country's natural resources are made when signing foreign investment agreements.
- Tree planting trees outside natural forests to ease pressure on them.

As a leader in regional biodiversity conservation, Liberia is well-positioned to drive global action, but it must ensure that its backyard is in order by halting the depletion of biodiversity and forests. This would further enable the country to rally development partners and the international community to invest in biodiversity conservation and protection in Liberia.

By Lincoln G. Peters

residential hopeful Mr. doing. Simeon Freeman Musa Dean, for what he terms is just face shielding. What I see

"This statement from the angrily criticized the Minister, Cllr. Frank Musa Dean, Minister of Justice and Attorney in my mind, is completely General of Liberia, Cllr. Frank irresponsible and reckless. This knows what exactly they are million worth of drugs. The same was also done with Columbia. Those people in other countries are taking steps to prevent such, but for the accused to be released and later the Minister of Justice come up with a statement condemning the verdict is irresponsible and face shielding." Mr. Freeman asks why the

Justice Minister didn't take all the time he took to write his nice press statement to put together all the best lawyers and gather pieces of evidence, weigh them before going to court to ensure the government won the case, noting "These are the things we call hypocrisy and pretense that we continue to see in the government."

He further wonders that under the Ministry of Justice, how much money had the government allotted to the Liberia Drugs Enforcement Agency (LDEA) when the Office of the Vice President has more money than the LDEA.

According to him, the last time he checked, the LDEA budget was US$460,000 for the entire year, while the operational fund for the Vice President's Office is US$ 1.5 million and the Speaker, US$1 million. "The LDEA only has one operational vehicle. I believe that even if the LDEA wants to hold government commitment to fighting drugs, how much money the government has placed in the hands of the largest drugs enforcement agency to enable that. I hear the other day that there is a new drug called Kush and it's killing people. Where is that drug passing? These things hurt our country", he laments.

Mr. Freeman wants to know who released the four defendants after they were found not guilty by the 13member trial jury and who gave them the right to pass thru the border and leave the country.

The MPC leader notes that if he were President of Liberia, he would have fired both the Solicitor General and the Justice Minister and charged them for collaboration to serve as deterrence."This says a lot about our country and the people that are in power. This is a stigma and this stigma will always be on us. This case talks about the quality of lawyers, the legal system, and the capacity of government. It talks more about the government's legal system and not the court. This also says a lot about the seriousness we attached to this case."He says the CDC administration is flooded with lapses from the financial sector, health, education, and the economy, which speak to the kinds of people President Weah appoints in his government.

Editing by Jonathan Browne guilty verdict in favor of four corrupt", Mr. Freeman suggests. defendants put on trial in the the country.

weekend described as appalling clamp down on the illegal smugglers. transit of illicit drugs using West Latin America and elsewhere.

worrisome and shameful as in on the court, which is totally the case of the recent verdict, irresponsible to say the least. for the courts to be setting Now, when you heard the hardcore criminals free when ordinary man saying the court is the evidence is overwhelming not correct, they are following in the face of international the lead of the government, security collaboration that who says the court is not tracked and brought the correct. This is irresponsible perpetrators of this heinous and I think the Chief Justice crime before the law.

interview with journalists at his this kind of irresponsible Banjor Community residence in statement", Mr. Freeman Brewerville outside Monrovia reiterates. He describes the on Monday, May 22, Mr. entire situation surrounding the Freeman, political leader of the trial by the government, Movement for Progressive especially Cllr. Dean's action as Change (MPC) described the complete hypocrisy and blame assertion by Minister Dean game. He wonders how could against the Judiciary as reckless Minister Dean, who presides and irresponsible face overabudget prosecute a most shielding. According to him, it's important case involving US$100 totally out of order for the million drugs burst that is one of Minister of Justice to blame the the second largest in the world court for their missteps and and makes fun of it but now presents the Judiciary as a wants to shield face. corrupt institution when in

"irresponsible face shielding" the Justice Minister doing here comments made against the is a disclaimer for the Judiciary in the US$100 million international community. This drugs burst case that has turned appears to say we are fighting a fiasco.Last week Thursday, back. But, I think it's now time May 18, a jury panel at Criminal that Chief Justice Yuoh hold the Court "C", Temple of Justice in Justice Minister for contempt Monrovia handed down a not for branding that branch as

He notes that for the Justice $100 million Cocaine case, Minister to make such a calling for their release which statement against the court and the court complied with and the judicial branch of they have reportedly escaped government in general is irresponsible because he has But Minister Dean over the cast a dark cloud on the court.

He argues that there are the not guilty verdict of potential negative impacts of Criminal Court "A" of the first such carelessness in handling judicial Circuit of Montserrado the drugs burst trial by the County at the Temple of Justice Government of Liberia, because presided over by Judge A. it has a propensity of denying Blamo Dixon. The Attorney Liberians from accessing visa to General contended that the travel to other countries and verdict clearly undermines the even put them in the perceived collective efforts of Liberia and position of being drugs its international coalition to processors, pushers and

"The Minister of Justice Africa as the conduit to trade should now be asked why he narcotics internationally from didn't take an appeal when the verdict was read. To say this He said it becomes kind of statement is to cast dark needs to bring the Justice However, speaking in an Minister to book to account for

"Recently, the Government fact, the Attorney General of Italy also arrested US$100 "Don't put Liberia in trouble"

By Lewis S. Teh

www.thenewdawnliberia.com

ormer Montserrado County lawmaker David Kotee urges Vice President Jewel Howard Taylor to desist from making inflammatory statements that could put Liberia in trouble.

"Madam Vice President. You are my sister and I which I could say this to your face, don't put Liberia into trouble", Mr. Kotee cautions.

In a very angry tune, he gave the warning here on Monday, May 22, while on a live talk show, further lamenting that it's unfortunate for a person occupying high position in government like Vice President Taylor to make statements that will threaten the peace of the Recently, VP Taylor at an endorsement ceremony held at the Capitol said "We all know our former Vice President isn't well, so God forbid, if Boakai dies in mate, a move that has developed bad blood between the ruling CDC and PYJ.

Vice President Taylor's statement didn't go down well with Senator Johnson, who wrote on his Facebook page that he will respond to the Vice President during his regular church service at his Christ Chapel of Faith in Paynesville outside Monrovia.

But during Sunday's worship at the church, groups of youth from the National Patriotic Party of VP Taylor and the ruling CDC stormed the premises and disrupted the service, chanting "war crimes court, war crimes court" in apparent response to Sen. PYJ's vehement opposition to call for the establishment of a war crimes court for Liberia to prosecute people who committed hideous crimes, like the senator, during the 14-year Liberian Civil War.

At the same time, Kotee rejects PYJ's threat to mobilize 500 men to defend himself in response to youth Presidential aspirant the next service. President?"

switched support from President Weah to former VP Boakai of the opposition Unity Party with Mr. Boakai naming the leader of Sen Johnson's MDR party Sen. Jeremiah Koung as his running power, do we want to make from the NPP of VP Taylor and the Prince Y. Johnson who isn't a ruling CDC disrupting his church

"I don't support any 500 men Senator Prince Johnson has going anywhere that might create more trouble", Kotee says, adding that if Senator Johnson would have responded yesterday, several citizens would have been taken to

CONT'D ON PAGE 7

MAY 15, 2023

This is to inform all officials and members of the Movement for Progressive Change (MPC) and the general public that the 4th National Convention of the Party will be held on Tuesday, May 23, 2023. Please be at the Party Headquarters on Monday May 22, 2023 for more information.

Chairman 4th National Convention Committee

Approved:

O'Niel Paasewe National Chairman/MPC

VOL. 13 NO. 082

Stand-off at Arcelor Mittal Liberia Buchanan

-As protesters demand steel giant live up to MDA

t least one person sustained a head

May 22, when dozens of injury on Monday, arrears.

The citizens blocked the main entrance of ArcelorMittal's Concession, the citizens in Grand Bassa was train track, and several major intended to draw the

By: Emmanuel wise Jipoh demanding payment of salary the scene to calm the situation and restore law and order.

Monday's protest by citizens staged a protest at Arcelor Mittal Liberia Buchanan's office demanding that the concession company live up to its Minerals Development Agreement (MDA).

The protest follows a weeklong go-slow by employees from the company's Nimba and Grand Bassa operation sites elsewhere near the company's Social Corporate facility.

The citizens were said to have besieged Arcelor Mittal premises early Monday morning as part of the MDA, Arcelor to demand the company's attention to their concerns after several meetings have

The protest turned violent when police were deployed to points as they burned tires company's attention to its Responsibility to the county as stated in its MDA.

> According to the citizens Mittal Liberia is expected to construct schools, clinic, and a washing plant in the county, but the steel giant has failed

CONT'D ON PAGE 7

Pay with MoMo!

Dial *156*3#

